Subject: COT report

To Whom It Concerns:

As an investor, I use all of the information that is available to me. The loss of the M3 data was a blow against the free flow of information. If the CFTC should decide to now stop, reduce, or delay the COT report it will be another blow to the use of government information by our citizens.

What reason can our government have to make its citizens less informed when it now has the ability to keep everyone much better informed with our wondrous technology? One must be suspicious that powerful vested interests are finding need to remove what has been public knowledge from that public realm.

Why is our government finding greater and greater desire to keep us uninformed or misinformed? I challenge you to prove that my fears are groundless.
