Hello Sir:

I just want to say a few things... The COT report is a God Sent tool, that I rely almost totally on. I rely on it solely because I am not smart enough to follow, the new events, the weather models, the diseases, the sunamis, etc, and how all that, relates to the price of commodities, going up or down.. For example? Earlier this year, The news said, that beans went down, because they found a case of bird flue, in Asia.... I didnt know that the bird flue, and soybeans were somehow related?

I have learned to use the COT report, to base my postions. Without this info, I will be naked, and I am not alone.. The report gives us, a specific direction, to trade in. It also gives me confidense, great comfort, and peace of mind, once I place a trade. I do not fear daily price action. What I fear is? Not knowing the overall trend. The COT report, shows me just that.. Please do not discontinue this wonderful report!!

One more thing? Try to imagine how many, many, many, more wrecks of financial demise, there will be if you discontinue this report? Because if us little guys dont know where to stand?.. big business, will knock us out, and swallow us up. That COT report evens things up. It gives us little guys, a big left hook, in the commodity ring.

Sincerely

Tom Funk
