Subject: COT DATA

COMMENT

I don't understand why M3 stopped getting reported (well I sort of do), but the COT data is rather an important piece of info to have as an investor/trader.

We all want to be the "smart" money, and it is always good to know what the commercials are doing along with the large speculators.

I cannot see a logical reason to deny this information for all, we all want a level playing field, you don't get that by hiding important and useful information.
