The amendments set forth in Exhibit A reflect changes to certain aspects of filing SR-NFX-2015-10 relating to the Energy Product transaction charges which was filed on March 11, 2015, but which has not yet been implemented. Specifically, the Exchange has now determined that it will assess no transaction charges with respect to the Energy Products until May 1, 2016. Instead, the Exchange will determine Energy Product transaction charges, and amend the Fee Schedule accordingly, prior to May 1, 2016. Additionally, the Exchange clarifies that Energy Product transaction charges will not represent Energy Product clearing fees, which will be assessed by The Options Clearing Corporation pursuant to its own fee schedule.

The Exchange believes that the amendments proposed herein are consistent with the Core Principles. In particular, in compliance with Core Principle 7, the Energy Product transaction charges will be set forth in a clear and transparent manner on the NASDAQ Futures Fee Schedule, which is publicly available on the Exchange's website.

There were no opposing views among the Exchange's Board of Directors, members or market participants. The Exchange certifies that the changes to the Exchange's Fee Schedule and the clarification set forth herein comply with the Commodity Exchange Act and regulations thereunder. The Exchange also certifies that notice of pending certification and a copy of this submission have been concurrently posted on the Exchange's website at WWW.NASDAQOMX.COM/NASDAQ-FUTURES.
